Pine Tree League

West Paris 25; Norway 5

Norway went into a big splash at West Paris, Saturday, when the leaders in the league ran riot with 27 hits and the visitors misplayed at every corner. Norway played 12 errors and West Paris also had a bad day, while recording, of 7 bad breaks. Billings of West Paris led the walloping with a triple, a double and 3 singles. Del Rich, the Norway twirler, was unable to check the awful carnage that resulted in 11 runs, during the sixth inning. The game was a typical three-ring circus, with something doing every minute. FASTEST SELLING CAR of all the One-Profits Studebakers

INCREASED volume of sales—founded on Studebaker's policies of one-profit manufacture, and no yearly models—made it possible to reduce the price of this Standard Six Coach by $100.

Already a wonderful value—a leader of the line—the lowest priced closed car ever sold by Studebaker—its previous low price has been cut one hundred dollars.

Many of the superiorities of this one-profit Coach are hidden until revealed by thousands of miles of usage. You can't see the fine workmanship and materials inside the engine and body which gives excess mileage. But there are some things that you can check against competitive cars to satisfy yourself that this is a Studebaker of the same fine quality as before the price cut—a Studebaker more up to date than the newest yearly models.

EXCESS POWER—According to rating of National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, this is the most powerful car of its size and weight.

WOOL UPHOLSTERY—Durable.

INSTRUMENTS—Including 8-day clock, gasoline gauge, speedometer, oil pressure gauge and ammeter, in single grouping under glass on beautiful silver-faced dial.

FULL-SIZE BALLOON TIRES—For which the steering gear, fenders and even the body lines are specially designed.

AUTOMATIC SPARK CONTROL—No spark lever on steering wheel, but:

SAFETY LIGHTING CONTROL—On the steering wheel, at the driver's finger tips.

IMPROVED ONE-PIECE WINDSHIELD—Automatic windshield cleaner, weatherproof view, rear-view mirror, attractive cowl lights and cowl ventilator.

CO-INCIDENTAL LOCK—To ignition and steering wheel, which serves to reduce the theft insurance rates—single key operates this lock as well as that on the door and the clever device on the spare-tire carrier.

COMPLETELY MACHINED CRANK-SHAFT—To obtain perfect engine balance and thus reduce vibration to a minimum.

There are only two cars manufactured on the one-profit basis: Studebaker in the fine car field, and the Ford in the low price field. Only in these two cases does one company in its own plants make all bodies, all engines, all clutches, steering gears, differentials, springs, gear sets, gray iron castings and drop forgings.

Come in and see this coach. You will find it the same fine car as before the price reduction.

Herbert M. Kendall

The valley and town have met with a distinct loss in the passing away of Herbert Mandeville Kendall, a lifelong resident, on August 19. He has been in ill health the greater part of two and more years, but has bravely kept up, receiving the greatest care from his family and friends, until he went peacefully to eternal rest.

He was the son of Justus J. and Marcia (Merrill) Kendall and of a family of eleven there is left but one, Mrs. Alina E. (Kendall) Grover, who, owing to illness, was unable to attend the service held at the home, Friday, Aug. 21, conducted by Rev. C. B. Oliver of the M. E. Church at Bethel, S. S. Greenleaf in charge.

Sept. 4, 1894, he was united in marriage with Sarah A. Spianey of Newry. Five children were born to them, the oldest, Martha Alice, died in infancy; he is survived by his wife; son, Anson Herbert; daughters, Edna E., Ruth M., and Charles S., of his immediate family, and by his sister, Mrs. Grover, of his close relatives. Many nieces and nephews, and hosts of friends.

He was a good townsman in every sense of the word, always interested and active in the interests of his home town.

The service was most largely attended of any held in the valley. Bear River Grange, of which he was a member, sent a large delegation. The abundance of flowers spoke eloquently of love and respect. A familiar figure will be greatly missed, as he would have reached his seventy-second milestone on Sept. 19. He had close friends and schoolmates, D. R. Smith, Bion Swan, Mrs. Ruby (Smith) Cunningham, Leslie G. Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. P. Adolbert Wilson and family of Newry, N. H. schoolmates; George Williamson of Presque Isle and Selden Foster of Everett, Mass.

Burial was in the family lot at Hillside Cemetery, near "Artist Bridge."

Robert Bean and Enoch Foster are at Rumford Hospital, recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Bean has a large family and his illness is much regretted.

DON SEITZ' STORIES OF PIRATES WELL TOLD

"Under the Black Flag," by Don C. Seitz—When one thinks of pirates one very naturally conjures up a mental picture of a group of swagging, cut-throat, and bloodthirsty type; of low, rakish, swift ships with decks swarming with these picturesque sea parasites, all on the watch for the first helpless craft to loom in sight. One thinks of the pirate ship's chests as always heavy with golden pieces of eight, rich plate, jewels and costly ornaments awaiting delivery to the owner at the secret rendezvous.

Is the picture anything like the reality? After reading this 341-page volume, the latest addition to The Rogues' Liars, one doubts the accuracy of this traditional conception of the pirate. As one progresses through the pages of the book, one comes to see that there were pirates and pirates; some of them fully living up to the present day conception of them, but others falling so far short of the picture that they seem almost laughable.

The old idea of the pirate does not well apply to the careers of even some of the most noted of these freebooters. It is doubtful if today's "pirates" are a number of even the famed ones of old scarcely earned their salt at the game.

Cleaver Don C. Seitz in this book tells the story of 30 of these pirate captains, of what they did and what they tried to do and even what was done to them on the high seas. They are exciting and revealing tales of high adventure, glorious sea fights, rich captures, whole gales, disaster, mutiny and the wildest romance.

The careers of these 30 pirate chiefs are not presented with a great wealth of adjectives and imaginative scenes and incidents, but simply and vividly, with close adherence to fact and history, so that as one reads he knows it is fact he is looking at and not romantic conjecture.

In the stories of Thomas Pounce, whose practical career began in Boston Harbor and ended not far from it, Capt. Kidd, Blackbeard, Capt. Mison, Thomas Tew, John Quelch, Stee Bonnet, and the others comprising the 30 buccaneer chiefs treated in the volume, one learns much about the old-time pirate that gives a new conception of many of them. They were not all just ruthless destroyers for mere gain, as the text of the pages so plainly tells.

The combined stories of these adventurous freebooters makes a volume that is rich in interest, incident and romance.

It is a book to take up and read, a story or two at a time, so as to get the whole flavor of the volume, but the interest in the pages is such that it is not easy to lay it aside after one or two stories have been read, the inclination is all to keep right on to the last page of the exciting contents. It is one of the most entrancing books the brilliant author has written.—Boston Globe.

When asked how he found marriage, one of our readers replied: "During courtship I talked and she listened. After marriage she talked and I listened. Now we both talk and the neighbors listen."

Rev. Charles Hubbard of Portland, and Mrs. Ives came out the Sunday morning worship at the Albany Church and Mr. Duncom of Portland preached an interesting sermon, text taken from Proverbs 24-30-31. "I went by the field of the slothful, and by the vineyard of the man void of understanding. And, lo, it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall was broken down." If a man plants a garden and it grows to weeds, his neighbor cannot prevent it, although the seeds of the weeds will injure their neighbor. He likened our lives to three vineyards, body, mind and soul, the body should not be injured by bad habits, for it is the temple of the living God. Our minds should be filled with pure thoughts, avoiding vile literature, vice, words or thoughts. Our soul should be filled with the great love of Christ, which is to love thy neighbor as thyself.

MAINE POSSESSES
"NIAGARA OF EAST"
IN QUODDY PROJECT

Four Times Greater Than Muscle Shoals. May Produce Wonderful Industrial Development In Eastern Maine.

Project to Be Voted On In September Election—Is Strongly Endorsed by Many Maine Men of Prominence

Excepting only Niagara, the great immediate, available waterpower in the United States lies in the State of Maine. Even Muscle Shoals, the much advertised "Niagara of the South," is small in comparison with the possibilities that Maine has to offer.

Though Maine's rivers are capable of supplying a large amount of power, this "Niagara of the East" is not river power—it is a gift of the sea.

Owing to the unique features of Maine's eastern coast, it is economically practical to put to work the high tides that rush twice daily in Passamaquoddy Bay. Careful engineering surveys, which have been in progress for years, indicate that by means of huge dams and other works, costing less per primary horsepower than the Muscle Shoals installation, 500,000 horsepower can be generated here continuously and, during the two weeks of each month when there are unusually high tides, this total will reach nearly 700,000 horsepower.

Now compare this with Muscle Shoals.

Passamaquoddy Bay Has Four Times the Primary Power of Muscle Shoals.

Muscle Shoals lies on the Tennessee River, which shares the peculiarities of most rivers in that its flow varies in accordance with the season. Thus it is estimated by government engineers that over 600,000 horsepower can be generated at Muscle Shoals during the very high spring flood, but on the other hand during the dry season less than 100,000 horsepower can be obtained.

It is, however, continuous or "primary" power—power that can be obtained twenty-four hours a day every day in the year—that is of first importance. "Secondary" power—power that can be obtained only part of the time—has indeed some value, but very much less than primary power.

To obtain a direct comparison between the power at Passamaquoddy Bay and that at Muscle Shoals, kilowatt hours per year must be taken. According to Colonel Hugh Cooper, consulting engineer for Muscle Shoals, the primary power at Wilson Dam, Muscle Shoals is 700,000,000 kilowatt hours per annum.

For Passamaquoddy Bay, however, the amount of continuous dependable primary power is 2,268,000,000 kilowatt hours.

In other words, from the standpoint of primary power the Passamaquoddy Bay development has power possibilities that are four times greater than the power that can be developed at Wilson Dam, Muscle Shoals.

But, even giving Muscle Shoals credit for all the power that can economically be developed there, including the secondary power available only during seasons of high water, it can supply, according to Colonel Cooper, 2,100,000,000 kilowatt hours per annum. On the same basis, however, Passamaquoddy Bay can develop 2,500,000,000 kilowatt hours, or nearly twice the total of Muscle Shoals.

But the advantage possessed by Passamaquoddy Bay as compared with Muscle Shoals does not end with its mere size. Muscle Shoals has been conspicuous in the public eye merely because it is a large water power, but particularly because it is a potential source of cheap fertilizer for the American farmer.

One of the essential elements in fertilizer is phosphorus. The chief source of phosphoric rock in the United States is Florida, although some is also obtainable in Tennessee. To ship phosphoric rock to Muscle Shoals from Florida means a long, expensive freight haul. Shipments to Passamaquoddy Bay can be made by sea. So cheap is sea transportation that Florida's phosphorus deposits are almost next door to Passamaquoddy Bay. Even the Tennessee phosphoric rock cannot be shipped to Muscle Shoals as cheap as the Florida rock can be shipped to Maine.

As far as the other important element in fertilizer is concerned, namely nitrogen, Muscle Shoals enjoys no advantage over Passamaquoddy Bay, because this element is derived from the air.

Thus Passamaquoddy Bay has enormous possibilities from the standpoint of fertilizer alone.

But in addition to fertilizer many other products require electric power; among these are aluminum, carborundum, chlorine, and a wide variety of alloys and chemicals. Industries manufacturing such products use electric power in vast quantities and are attracted to the source of power so that the cost of transmission will be reduced to the lowest figure.

Mrs. Sadie Davis Margueau and children, of Somerville, Mass., visited Mrs. George Cushman and other relatives in town, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cole and daughter spent Sunday with relatives at Rumford Corner.

Electricity Created a City at Niagara Falls

To estimate the possibilities of growth of industry at Passamaquoddy Bay, due to industries of this character, it is perhaps fair to consider Niagara Falls.

In 1894 electric power in large quantity was first generated at Niagara Falls. Prior to that time no figures of either population or manufactures are given by the United States Census for this locality because neither were especially important. As soon as electricity was available here, however, there was an immediate change. Great industries were immediately erected in the neighborhood of the Falls and a city rose where before there was a mere stopping place for tourists.

This change is reflected in the United States Census Reports. In 1900 the permanent population of Niagara Falls was 19,000; in 1910 30,000; and in 1920, 51,000. The value of the manufactured products in Niagara Falls was $5,540,000 in 1900; $17,000,000 in 1905; $45,000,000 in 1914; and $89,000,000 in 1919. The figures for the last census are not yet available, but it is probable they will run over $100,000,000.

Electricity Developing the South

Another instance of the developing power of electricity can be found in the southern states. During the past twenty years an immense electrical system has been built up in the south which now supplies over 2,000,000,000 kilowatt hours a year to southern homes and industries.

Nowhere in North America has greater development taken place than in the south since this system came into existence. Everywhere in this area new factories, office buildings, homes, schools and churches are springing up. The value of manufactured products has increased over 236 per cent during the past ten years and the wages of persons engaged in industry have doubled within this same period.

Industrial activities follow economical sources of dependable power and population and prosperity follow industry.

To Be Voted on in September

The charter giving Dexter P. Cooper the right to develop the Quoddy power will be submitted to the people of Maine at the special election to be held on September 14. It is the third and last of the three questions on the ballot, and voters who wish to see the latent resources of Maine developed, increasing our tax revenues, our population and our wealth, and incidentally providing for Maine farmers a cheap, abundant and convenient supply of fertilizers should not fail to go to the polls to vote "yes" on this bill.

Among the many statements by prominent Maine citizens with reference to it are the following. Many others could be presented if space permitted.

"If the people of Maine are convinced that the project is not to create a precedent for the general exportation of electric power, but constitutes rather an exception that proves the rule, then September will see the proposal overwhelmingly endorsed."

GOVERNOR RALPH O. BREWSTER

"The passage of the bill by the voters of Maine will not constitute a precedent for invading our long established and to my mind sound policy of non-transmission. In one way it emphasizes and reinforces it. In short I believe if the Cooper project becomes a reality it will benefit Washington County and the State of Maine. I personally shall vote for it and am willing to have everybody know it."

Ex-Governor Percival P. Baxter
"It seems to me that the project cannot fail to be of advantage to the people of the State and I hope and believe it will receive their endorsement at the referendum in September."

Senator Frederick Hale
"I cannot see how anybody interested in developing Maine can fail to vote affirmatively."

W. R. Pattangall
"I am very much interested in the Quoddy Tidal Project and shall be glad to give it my hearty support—and feel sure that the great majority of the people will do the same."

Hiram W. Ricker
"I am unqualifiedly an advocate of the Quoddy Tidal Project. In my judgment it would be a mistake (if not) an economic crime to refuse the Charter."

Judge Benjamin F. Cleaves
"I am heartily in favor of the Cooper-Quoddy Development Project. I have worked for it and shall continue until the vote is counted. I am satisfied with the Charter and believe it adequately protects all public interests. Personally I can see no reason why I or any other citizen of Maine should refuse to approve the charter. I can see many reasons why we should."
